PINNED BENEATH HIS FORD DELIVERY CAR.

Felix P. Callahan Escaped Injury When Machine Overturned at Leftingwell.

Felix P. Callahan, local manager of the Texas Oil company, narrowly escaped serious injury Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock when his Ford delivery car in which he was driving turned completely over.

Underneath the machine, Mr. Callahan luckily escaped.

He was returning to this city from the vicinity of Ledyard, where within about 100 yards the other side of the Ledyard church a tire on his machine blew out. He had just passed a house when the tire blew out.

He was driving on the road when the accident happened. The oil tank which is located in the back of the car, and which is about 15 gallons of gasoline, pinned Mr. Callahan to the earth by the right arm.

Three young men who were on a nearby porch saw the accident and rushed to Mr. Callahan's aid. They were surprised to see him uninjured and a few minutes after, when the car was turned over, they found him pinned under the machine.

The occupants of a car that passed Mr. Callahan previous to the accident heard the crash and returned and were quite surprised to see Mr. Callahan uninjured.

The machine was damaged considerably. The windshield was completely wrecked and the top, mudguards and lights were smashed.

When the tire blew out, Mr. Callahan was not going at a fast rate of speed and it is thought the machine lurched and with the oil in the tank turned over.

Lightning Strikes Frame House.

Roof of East Side Residence Set on Fire by Bolt—Quick Work by Fire Department Prevents Serious Blaze—Versailles House Also Struck—Telegraph Pole Split at Taftville and Light Wires Torn Down in Greenville—Storm Makes Second Visit Late at Night.

About 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon lightning struck the roof of the house at 211 Maple place, occupied by John P. Edwards, letter carrier, and family, and set the house on fire. An alarm was sent in from box 8, Main street, near Taftville, at 4:45, and the fire department made a quick response. Good work on the part of the firemen who rushed two streams of chemical into the attic prevented the blaze from gaining any headway and the recall was sounded shortly after. To get at the fire it was necessary to tear out a section of wall. This with a hole in the roof was about the only damage done to the house. The house is a two-and-a-half-story frame building and the bolt struck the front end of the roof.

When the lightning struck there was no one in the house. Mrs. Edwards and child having gone to a neighbor's during the storm. The flash was immediately followed by a deafening crash. Will Close in September.

Camp Dewey was opened July 14, and while the day of closing has not been definitely set, it will probably be around the middle of September.

Thirty-seven boys living in Brooklyn and the Bronx, who had been scheduled to join those now in camp, at the time of going into camp were barred because of the infantile paralysis epidemic in New York. The boys in camp come from points as far distant as Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Utica, Canajoharie, N. Y., and many different parts of New England.

The encampment ground also holds a place in history for in one of the higher slopes near the water's edge is a large rock in which a bolt and had been driven. According to tradition the ring was used to fasten one end of a wire cable which extended across the river to Fort Detrick. The cable was used in position to prevent the British ships from proceeding farther up the river at the time of the Revolutionary war, and to have an opportunity to fire the fort to shell them from its position, fully a hundred feet above.

8,000 Members in United States.

Eight thousand boys in the United States have been enrolled as members of the United States Junior Naval Reserve.

Physical examinations are necessary upon entering camp and the result is recorded in a book for reference. In this particular book which is kept by the office in charge, will be found everything concerning the cadet whose names appear on the list.

Major Physic is an army man of much experience. He was a drillmaster in the New Mexican squadron of Roosevelt Light Cavalry during the Spanish American war of 1898. He served in the Third U. S. Cavalry and has also seen service under Colonel Wood at the battle of San Juan.

General Wood started the movement at Plattsburgh, N. Y., to have the movement in which his interest is centered. "We have every reason to expect that the Junior Naval Reserve will increase to proportions fully as great as those attained by the Plattsburgh camp. In fact, the scope of the work may become even broader than that at Plattsburgh, which is confined to summer training."

Each boy on entering camp is instructed to have the following equipment: One dark sweater, one extra pair of shoes (broken in), two face towels, two suits of underwear, four pairs of socks, one dozen handkerchiefs, one comb, one brush, one safety razor, one blanket, knife fork and spoon, one pair of sneakers, and one athletic cap.

Besides the guard tent, there is a hospital tent in which the majority of the patients thus far have been confined because of the heat. There are also tents for the instruction in astronomy, military and naval policy of the United States, geography, Spanish, French, and military tactics, etc.
